

My seal design has a tab that has a larger surface area that sticks out and up. This signifies that that area affords holding. I cut the top seal in the shape of a spiral to map that my seal should be pulled in that spiral direction. The large orange area also acts as a signifier of the space that affords holding, while the orange arrow further maps the direction the seal should be pulled in.